Online Backup

As the person responsible for the computer systems and network technical operations of your company, Business Continuity rests on your shoulders. Essentially you are responsible to make sure, that regardless of what happens, that your company or business continues to do business with little or no interruption.

You can save your company thousands, even millions of dollars and insure business continuity should your company suffer from data loss by taking proper actions to protect the company's assets that are stored on the company's desktops, laptops and servers. Reasons of data loss can include:

- Power Outages
- Recent troubles throughout the world
- Harsh winter storms
- Other natural occurrences worldwide that cause shutdowns because of data inaccessibility
- Disk crash
- Lost laptop

The truth is, a disaster or emergency can strike at anytime. It can take the form of natural occurrences, or in the form of theft, sabotage, hardware failure, or user error. Any of these occurrences of data loss can severely threaten a company's business process.

Industry analysts report that 50% of businesses that lose their data never open their doors again? Of those businesses that do stay open 90% end up failing completely within two years. It is easy to see how important it is for you to have the best business continuity plan available. Part of your plan should be reliable, simple, and scheduled back up of your data!

This is where caliberIT Backup will help take the pressure of maintaining business operations off your shoulders. Our products and service are second to none. We will provide you the solutions you need to make data protection automatic and worry free. So when a disaster or emergency does strike, no matter how extensive, you will be up and running again in no time at all!
